

Wire Transfers

A wire transfer is a secure way to transfer funds between your Lenco Credit Union account and an account at another financial institution.

Outgoing Wire Transfers

Members can send money to other financial institutions in the United States. We charge a $25.00 fee for outgoing wire transfers, and the receiving institution may also charge a fee.

To send money to another person or financial institution, you will need the following:

- Name and wiring address of the receiving financial institution
- ABA Routing Number of the receiving financial institution
- Name of the person the funds are being transferred to, their account number, and their address
- To ensure accuracy, it is best to get written wire instructions from the Financial Institution.

Visit either of our offices to initiate an outgoing wire transfer from your Lenco account. Contact us for international wire instructions.

Incoming Wire Transfers

Members can receive money from other financial institutions based in the United States. We charge a $10.00 fee for incoming wire transfers, and the receiving institution may also charge a fee.

To receive money from another person or financial institution, the following should be provided to the other institution:

Receiving Financial Institution:
